Programming

ILLN takes a collaborative approach to producing stories through solutions-focused reporting rather than problem-focused. We investigate responses to social problems, providing insights on the evidence of the effectiveness or ineffectiveness of them, and if limitations exist.

IL Latino News produces relevant and compelling video stories bringing members of the community from different sectors of industry and backgrounds together.

Our podcasts elevate the voices and visibility of matters most important to the community by speaking with thought leaders on the social determinants of health and democracy.
